

HAMPTON

The Hampton collection exudes a modern and luxurious look with a combination of high-quality MDF, metal, and travertine. The use of these materials gives the furniture a refined aesthetic and timeless charm.

The travertine in the Hampton collection is treated with care. The holes in the travertine are filled with epoxy, reducing the chance for liquids and other dirt to penetrate. This creates a durable and easy-to-maintain surface. The metal in the collection is handcrafted, contributing to the unique appearance of the furniture. The combination of metal and travertine creates a harmonious whole, where the natural character of the travertine and the modern elegance of the metal come together.

Maintenance

To keep the travertine in optimal condition, it is important to regularly wipe it with warm water, mild cleaning agents, and a microfiber cloth. Use coasters to prevent scratches and stains. Keep in mind that travertine is a natural stone and therefore porous. Be cautious with spills, as they can seep into the surface and cause stains. Remove spilled liquids promptly with a damp cloth. Due to the natural character of travertine, there may be imperfections such as holes and color variations. This contributes to the unique appearance and character of the material.

By maintaining the furniture pieces in optimal condition, you can enjoy the timeless elegance of the Hampton collection for a long time.
